

This year the International Aerosol Research Assembly bestows the international aerosol fellow award. The ceremony will take place at the International Aerosol conference in Helsinki, Finland (August 29 to September 3, 2010). The deadline for nominations is May 1, 2010.

International Aerosol Fellow Award is granted to recognize outstanding contributions to Aerosol Science and Technology through research, technical development, education and service. Nominations of candidates for the award are invited. The nominator must be a member of an IARA member society, but the nominee can be any individual, both inside and outside IARA member societies. At least three supporting letters must be included in the nomination. The nomination material has to be submitted to the Committee chair by 1 May 2010 in the form of a hard copy and an electronic version. I encourage all aerosol scientists to nominate persons for this outstanding award.

Details of the nomination procedure can be found at:

<http://homepage.univie.ac.at/helmuth.horvath/IAFA10.htm>

Questions concerning the award can be addressed to the chair of the IAF Award Committee:

Professor Helmuth Horvath
Institute for Experimental Physics
University of Vienna
Boltzmannngasse 5
1090 Vienna, Austria
Fax: + 431 4277 51186
Tel.: + 431 4277 51177
E-mail: Helmuth.Horvath@univie.ac.at